

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A picture program production assistance system comprises a project-making device for creating program meta data, and a processing device for obtaining the program meta data created by the project-making device, creating take meta data for each take, and correlating content data relating to the take and the take meta data with the cut within the program meta data.